Additional Opportunities

Additional Ways to Support SSR

The Society is a 501(c)(3) corporation, and all gifts are US-tax-deductible. All donations and their tax deductibility are acknowledged by a letter from the SSR President in January of each year, and donors are listed on the SSR Supporters page online. Donations can be directed to the general endowment of SSR, to support all of the society's activities, or directed to one of the specific funds listed below:

General Endowment Fund

Supports all of the society's activities.

Anita Payne Endowment Fund

Funds the Anita Payne New Perspectives on Reproductive Biology Lecture at the Annual Meeting and SSR trainee participation in leading-edge courses or workshops.

Bruce D. Murphy Endowment Fund for SSR Trainee Members

Provides support for the Trainee Representatives' activities at the Annual Meeting.

Fuller Bazer International Scientist Fund

Recognize scientific excellence in reproductive biology of international scientists outside North America through an award presented at the Annual Meeting.

Janice Bahr Endowment Fund

Provides Support for early career independent scientist to attend SSR Annual Meeting.

John J. Eppig Endowment Fund

Funds Annual Meeting session on female gametogenesis or follicular development.

SSR Trainee Support Fund

Provides travel assistance to Trainee Members of the Society to attend and present their research at the Annual Meeting.

Ryuzo Yanagimachi Endowment Fund

Funds Annual Meeting session on fertilization and Assisted Reproductive Technologies (ART).

Virendra B. Mahesh Neuroendocrine Fund

Supports a neuroendocrine focus session at the annual meeting.

Virendra B. Mahesh Legacy Fund

Supports maintenance and enhancement of Biology of Reproduction.

Virendra B. Mahesh New Investigator Fund

Supports the New Investigator Award, which recognizes an active, regular member of the Society for outstanding research completed and published within 12 years after receiving the PhD or other equivalent professional degree.

William Hansel Ovarian Research Program Fund

Funds an Annual Meeting session on ovarian function.
